NAHB Green Verifier Training in Helena and Builders Intro to Green Building Seminar

Presented By:

Become an accredited Green Building Verifier

- The NAHB Research Center is the sole certifying body for training and accrediting eligible individuals and is coming to Helena to offer this certification course.
- This course covers the protocol for verifying that a house meets the national certification program requirements, and is intended to ensure all verifiers across the county evaluate homes in a consistent manner.
- Individuals may work for larger organizations, but verifiers are accredited on an individual basis.
- Attendees must fill out an application and have pre-requisite training and/or experience that provides them a baseline understanding of general home building and "green" building knowledge. Training and/or experience can consist of such things as 1 year professional general building experience and 1 year professional green building experience, CGP designation, Green Advantage certification, NARI Green Building certification, RESNET Green Builder certification or LEED Accredited Professional certification.

Builders Intro to Green Building Seminar

The Intro to Green Building session will include a 45 minute overview of the National Green Building Certification, a 45-60 minute hands on design and score your green home activity, and a 15-30 minute question and answer session. The activity will include materials for participants to select design elements for a real or concept home, score that home, and to see exactly what they would have to provide in terms of documentation and construction practices in order to earn points towards certification levels of bronze, silver, and gold.
